

Crazy performs with the Soca Rebels in Sweden.

'They were literally wining down the place, jumping, waving flags and doing conga-lines...'

more."

The collaboration between Crazy and Soca Rebels marked the third successful outing in a town that is fast becoming fans of Trini music, having also experienced Machel Montano & Xtatik in much the same setting.

"From the point of view of a tour operator, this is exactly what is needed to spread the joy of soca music and the culture of Trinidad and Tobago outside the usual Caribbean community," Stallberg said.

"It is the precise formula for getting more people interested in the beautiful twin islands, Trinidad and Tobago and Crazy and Xtatik should be saluted for flying your country's flag so proudly," he said.